Activity 2 Customer Notes:

- The only real criteria for possible RCE Saskatchewan projects are that they must have an educational component and are in-line with the UN SDGs.
- When asked whether primary users will be using a desktop or mobile version of the RCE Sask website, the customer stated that at the moment the desktop version may be more utilized but, in the future, the mobile version will likely be more utilized. She also stated that she trusts the opinion and knowledge of the group to determine best design focus.
- The site in general looks interesting but how will it look on a mobile device?

- Splitting the page into three pages seems interesting but the map and search buttons need to be more visible as the tile graphics pull the user's attention away from them. (The customer didn't see the buttons until they were pointed out)
- The proposed design has a great visual.

Activity 3 Customer Notes:

- On mobile – will you be able to scroll down? Answer – yes
- Love the SDG block – great visual
- Love the color scheme
- Really good design – transparent – like how things are interactive

ENUM's Comments:

- Some groups had webpage footers – we should add one to our pages as well.
- We could think about adding an 'X' on the tiles as an added way to close them.
- Think about adding the mobile advanced search criteria as a filter tab to minimize the complexity of the screen/page.
- Add a hover over function for the UN SDGs - expand information on them.

Activity 4 Customer Notes:

- The visual is clean
- We have delivered everything that they have asked for
